NEIGHBORS GROUP SPONSORING SQUARE DANCING INSTRUCTION

Starting August 25 at 8 p.m. at the Youth Center, the Know Your Neighbor Group will have facilities for teaching of Square Dancing for all interested members of the community.

Lessons will be given by Leon-ard Ladner by O. H. Anderson caller. Both of these men have had great experience in this line, as they were connected with the NORD program in New Orleans, where they taught square dancing and were frequently seen over WDSU-TV.

To add to the fun there will be a real square dance band composed of fiddlers and guitarists. These lessons will be given every other Thursday evening at the Youth Center. They are a part of the Know Your Neighbor Group planning for the betterment of community spirit and are sponsored by the Merchants of the community.

SPILT DOVE SEASON SLATED THIS YEAR

There will be a split season on the hunting season for doves in Hancock County. Information received by Jack Ladner, president of the Hancock County Sportsmen's League is to the effect that the season will open the first half September 12 and continue through October 3, a total of 22

days. The second half of the season will begin December 19 and continue through Jan. 10, a total of 23 days, with a combined total of 45 days for the entire shooting season.

Those sportsmen who have not yet secured their licenses may obtain them by contacting Mrs. Randolph Bourgeois, 447 Balfourine Street. All licenses are now available.

THIS SECOND PRIMARY CAMPAIGN FOR GOVERNOR IS A CONTEST BETWEEN TWO WAYS OF LIFE

One is the American Way, the Memphis Way, the Traditional Way — which guarantees the opportunity for any person to rise from a humble beginning to become a great Minister, a great Lawyer, a great Doctor, or a faithful Public Servant. If he is willing to work, if he prepares himself, and if he proves himself worthy in lesser places BEFORE he asks for a position of higher trust and responsibility.

JUDGE J. P. COLEMAN HAS ALWAYS STOOD FOR:

- * The preservation of the public schools
- * The absolute maintenance of segregation
- * Honest government in all its phases
- * The fair regulation of public utilities
- * And all the other planks in his program which the people approved by their votes in the first primary

If elected on August 23rd, J. P. COLEMAN will not betray YOUR confidence in him.

Cast a vote for Mississippi on August 23rd. Vote for J. P. COLEMAN. He will ever remain hopefully and sincerely devoted to the service of all the people of Mississippi.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Elaine Schall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schall, celebrated her first birthday Monday afternoon at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Gertrude Saucier.

A party with about ten little children proved a delight of the afternoon. The traditional birthday cake with its lighted candle, plus ice cream and other party goodies was intriguing fare for the little ones.

Major David P. Bailey, US Marine Corps Recruiter in the Gulf Coast area announced the 14th Marine Officer Promotion. Of the 14 who were authorized to enroll in the Platoon Leaders' Class provided they can present documentary evidence of acceptance in an accredited college or university for the next academic term.

Accepted applicants will attend two six-week summer training programs at the Marine Corps School, Quantico, Va., 35 miles south of Washington D.C. Some of the intensive training to be received will include Marine Corps History, Military Science and Tactics and Leadership.

Sgt. Bailey stated that these young men may like to know about a program through which they can discharge their responsibilities as citizens and receive a commission as a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve immediately upon graduation from college, be guaranteed of military deferment until they complete college, have complete academic freedom during the school year without any required courses, training or interference by the military.

All training prior to receiving the commission will be held in the two six-week summer training period during the four years of college.

Graduates of this program will serve as Reserve Officers on active duty for three years during which time they may apply for a commission as a career officer.

For further information contact Capt. Dan L. Mills, Officer Procurement Officer, Room 25, P. O. Building, Birmingham, Ala. or your local Marine Recruiter, M-Sgt. David P. Bailey, located at City Hall, Gulfport.

Mr. and Mrs. James Normand of Darwood on the Jourdan will have as guests this week-end Mr. and Mrs. Frank Prattini and son Kenny.

CHRISTOPHER
BELL

BALTIMORE, MD.—One could almost hear Baltimore's ceiling like a roof between the various points of interest, but to me the most remarkable and majestic thing in the whole city was the lonely grave of Elizabeth Patterson, the American girl that Napoleon sacrificed to be own ambitions.

On a summer night, perhaps as dark and fatal as their future, Jerome Bonaparte slipped into the heart of New York, and soon made his way to Baltimore where he met Elizabeth Patterson.

Elizabeth was eighteen, famous already for her beauty and vivaciousness. Jerome, youngest brother of Napoleon, was not yet nineteen, but as soon as he saw Elizabeth, he determined to marry her.

This marriage was opposed immediately by the girl's father, William Patterson, a wealthy Baltimore merchant. He knew that Jerome was not only dependent upon Napoleon financially but legally as well, and he was afraid that a marriage contract without Napoleon's consent would not hold. And the First Consul of France had other plans for Jerome.

Jerome was still continuing his plan of his war against England. Jerome's plan was to talk to Napoleon and try to arrange an interview there between him and Elizabeth. He never even got to see Napoleon.

However, the worried father had taken all precautions available to him. First, he made Jerome wait until he was at least nineteen, then he had drawn up a strict marriage contract, and, as a final effort, he had the ceremony performed by Bishop Carroll, the highest ranking Prelate of the Roman Catholic Church in America. Unfortunately, none of these measures prevailed against Napoleon.

Napoleon's first act on hearing of the marriage was to order his brother home, "without the Patterson girl." He never gave Elizabeth the courtesy of speaking of her as Jerome's wife. Jerome refused to return without Elizabeth. So then he found himself deprived of all income and office, Napoleon having issued orders cutting off the allowance of "Citizen Jerome Bonaparte."

The young husband had the hope that an interview between the Emperor and Elizabeth would overcome his brother's opposition, so great was Jerome's faith in his wife's intelligence and beauty. But Napoleon had closed every French port against her entry.

Nevertheless, the young couple made several attempts to sail for France, all ending fruitlessly until finally they embarked on one of Mr. Patterson's merchant ships. They reached Lisbon, and there Jerome left her, continuing Elizabeth went on to Holland hoping to land there. But Napoleon had anticipated that move and arranged to have this port too closed to her, so great was his influence over all of Europe. She then turned to an English ship, taking port finally in Cambridge, and there her son was born.

Jerome wrote fervent letters to her, inquiring anxiously about his son's health and hoping out always the hope that he would soon be able to win Napoleon over to their cause.

Finally Elizabeth went home. And eventually the letters stopped. Jerome had now become King of Westphalia; and shortly thereafter he married the daughter of Frederick, King of Wurttemberg. Napoleon, having tried and failed to arrange an annulment through the Pope, had forced the Imperial Council of France to issue an annulment of the Bonaparte-Patterson marriage.

After that, Elizabeth realized that Jerome would never have the moral courage to withstand his brother's will, and she herself applied, through the Maryland courts, for a divorce; though trying by every legal means to maintain her son's right to inherit the throne.

All of this happened a very long time ago, of course; but somehow standing now and look-

Through Every Process Assures Safety of Salk Polio Vaccine

For the last three years, a scientist is protecting millions of human beings from polio. While the Salk vaccine will not work in every case, American children are being safeguarded against the disease with no more risk than they would take in a vaccination against smallpox or a typhoid shot. The Salk vaccine must pass elaborate tests under the watchful eye of a government inspector at every stage of production. Then the final packaged vaccine is approved by the U.S. Public Health Service for distribution. Here are shown a few of the steps that assure American parents their children are being given a safe vaccine.

A shrimp and crab boil is planned on Saturday, Aug. 27 instead of the Saturday night dinner. The yield of oysters has increased 10 per cent during the first half of 1955, compared with the same period in 1954, according to the Mississippi Seafood Commission. Indications also show that this year's shrimp catch on the Coast will exceed that of last year.

In the year ending July 1, 1954, a total of 209,444 barrels of oysters were caught, while 61,795 barrels of shrimp were taken by fishermen along the Coast. Already this year a total of 235,601 barrels of oysters have been brought in, while the shrimp catch totals 62,892 barrels with peak fishing season not yet reported.

The 75-mile strip of Coast boasts 35 plants which can deep freeze and process this annual harvest of the Gulf. These industries represent a multi-million dollar industry which provides employment and payrolls for a large segment of the population and which supports numerous other servicing industries.

A major portion of the Coast which operate along the Coast are engaged in catching shrimp and oysters but earlier, since World War II, an increasing number of boats have been added to the fleets of menhaden fishers. This small oil producing fish is another of the post-war developments of this area.

There are optimistic hopes now for another new fishing industry, Tuna canning.

A smaller, though still large number, have been prospering in business related to the perpetuation of this important industry, although not all of them are directly connected with the business of fishing.

It takes a small army of people to keep the shrimp boats coming and going.

Shrimpfishing alone is a sizeable industry along the Coast, providing employment for many people. A current directory of manufacturers lists 16 boat building establishments on the Coast, exclusive of the giant Ingalls Shipbuilding Corporation yards at Pascagoula.

In addition to the men who build the boats for the fishing fleet, the industry requires chimneys, trawl makers, ice manufacturers, marine hardware dealers, engine companies, grocers, distributors of fuel, and many others offering such services.

In the Fall of the year the shrimp fleet converts a major portion of its fleet to oyster fleet. Keels must be boxed in, metal guides must be installed from which rollers serve out the steel cables to the Gulf's bottom where the 140-pound steel-toothed dredges rake the bottom for the much sought bivalves.

There is a constant flow of business. Boats are ever in need of repair and must be hauled out on the ways periodically.

Additional auxiliary business upon which the seafood industry depend are the marine hardware and supply dealers and the marine engine companies. They supply an endless string of paints, chains, anchors, buckets, scales, ropes, cleats, compasses, shovels, rakes, tong, and the hundreds of other odds and ends necessary to commercial fishing.

Trawl manufacturers and marine shops also are kept busy as is the grocer who supplies the provisions for extended excursions into the Gulf.

All of these are private businesses, independent of the seafood industry and yet owing a great deal to this important segment of the economy of the area.

HUBBARD

Leading Candidate Of
Supervisor Race

I have tried to conduct my campaign as I intend to run my office if re-elected Supervisor; with sincerity, dignity and honesty. If I felt I was compelled to lie about my opponent or make false promises to be elected, I would not be a fit candidate for the most important office of Supervisor.

In all my years of public office, no one has ever dictated to or controlled me. My first thought has always been, "What will best benefit the taxpayers." No one can accuse me of not having the courage of my convictions. Even if I stand alone, my vote goes down for what I believe to be right.

If a man in Public Office works for the PEOPLE and the COUNTY unselfishly and with no thought of PERSONAL gain, the results are bound to be beneficial to all.

I will conduct my office as Supervisor as I do my business, being conscientious, honest and untiring in my efforts to serve the public.

At the present time we are faced with a situation which is unique. If we do not increase the supply we will meet the demands next year. In 1946, up to the present time, many thousands of children have received polio shots. This includes the group from Canada and the North.

Some trouble was experienced in administering the first batches released from the six laboratories that were making polio vaccines. New and more rigid tests are required by the Foundation and the Public Health Service. It is safe to say this late product is being subjected to even more stringent test for purity and potency. From here on out, we do not anticipate any further trouble in administering polio vaccine. All new vaccines have to pass through a testing system and unfortunately the most rigid test is on the child. We certainly had our rough spots of anxiety and apprehension and are grateful that the vaccination is providing the hope which many have been in the past to prevent polio.

Geffery's challenges will be heard by more than 300 safety leaders invited by Governor Hugh White to attend the conference, the first of its kind held in Mississippi.

All phases of safety, including industrial, farm and highway safety, will be discussed during special sessions planned for the day-long conference.

Civic and fraternal organizations throughout Mississippi are being urged by Commissioner of Public Safety J. B. Birdsong to send youths to the conference. Pleased with the interest being generated in the forthcoming state safety stated that if the young people wanted to take part in the program, "they should besides we need them."

Of Gallin, Commissioner Birdsong disclosed that the Madison Student had had safety as a 4-H club project for the last four years and that the group which Geffery has been in the past to protect the safety of the people.

PEOPLE OF HANCOCK COUNTY:

Dear Friends:

We did not win the game but we gave our opponents the biggest scare of their lives. It is indeed a great pleasure to thank you from the bottom of my heart for the support and influence you gave me in the August 2 primary and also to the people who supported one of the other fine candidates. I want you to know that I can't express how much I appreciated what you did in helping me run such a wonderful race. I feel like I have accomplished something even though I did not win the race. I enjoyed the campaign, had lots of fun, met people I never knew existed and made new friends. It makes me both proud and happy.

I want to congratulate Mr. Sylvan Ladner and Mr. Gerald Price for their splendid race. The people in Hancock County can rest assured that they will have a good sheriff for the next four years in either of these fine gentlemen.

I want to offer my condolence and sympathy to the other eleven sheriff candidates, too many to mention their names because our paper is just too small. It was a pleasure to be in a race with fine men like you.

My present stand in the Sheriff run off.

It has been rumored that I am supporting Mr. Ladner and also Mr. Price, well you have two fine men to choose from. I have the highest respect for both of them, and I will ask all of my friends and supporters to vote like I am going to do, vote for the man of your choice, I am going to take no part except to vote.

My intention in the next sheriff's race

If our Lord and Savior says the same, I will definitely be a candidate four years from now. I will run the same kind of race that I have just completed. I will be strictly independent. I will not ask the support of any political ring or faction in any way. I will be seeking the support and influence of the free thinking independent voter. I will again try to prove to the grand people of Hancock County that a person can be elected without buying his way in or being connected with any political ring. I started campaigning again on August 3 and I ask your support and influence to make me sheriff in August 1959. I hope I did not offend any one during this campaign, if I did it was not my intention and I ask your forgiveness.

I want to thank you again from the depth of my heart. My best wishes to each and all.

Thank you.

WELTON J. LADNER SR.

To The Voters

As we approach the all important Second Primary of the Democratic Election when the will of YOU the people shall place the responsibility of the highest law enforcement office in the county on the shoulders of the man of your choice, I deem it only fitting and proper at this time to give you a brief resume of both my experience as a law officer and my activity of the past years.

Notwithstanding the fact that I am a veteran of World War I and after serving as a law enforcement officer for a period of 18 years, I entered as a candidate for Sheriff and Tax Collector in the 1951 election and only a small margin of votes kept me from being your present Sheriff. With enmity toward no one, respecting the will of the people and not trying to become affiliated with any political faction, I immediately went to work at my former trade of painting contractor which I have pursued these past four years.

One week before the first primary, I started my present campaign and the overwhelming confidence which you have shown by putting me in the final runoff, with a majority of 293 over my nearest opponent in a race of 14 candidates, can only be an indication of your desire for top law enforcement in our county. Once again my sincere thanks and appreciation for your continued support.
